Motivity: Integrate Field Service and Project Engineers with SAP Business One

Motivity for SAP Business One provides field service and project engineers access to your SAP Business One system, improving both planning and efficiency of the workforce.

The SAP Business One Service Management, Stock, Projects, Sales Order, Customer Equipment Cards and Contracts are all available within Motivity and work with or without a live internet connection on your phone or tablet.

This keeps your workforce connected to the office and provides instant two-way communication with your field based staff. They have access to all the briefing information and forms needed to complete a job. Once complete, field staff can immediately return job forms and information, parts used, travel information and expenses. These are then used to create automatic or semi-automatic billing in SAP Business One.

Paperwork is replaced by electronic job sheets so jobs can be dispatched to engineers instantly. Engineers instantly receive orders and information from the office on their mobile device while on the road.

While on-site the workforce can capture and update information, such as: equipment installed, location, checks carried out, readings, compliance certificates, faults found and action taken. They can also take scan QR and bar codes, and attach this to a job.

Motivity enables you to record all the work carried out on-site and attach it to the job, and confirm it with photographic evidence. This means billing can be carried out on the same day as all the necessary information is instantly available to support the invoice, speeding up the payment process.

Motivity also pinpoints the exact location of your field engineers, what job they are working on, time spend on site and travelling times, which allows proactive management to maximise efficiency. Alerts can also be set up to let the office know if they don't respond.

Running Motivity for SAP Business One demonstrates to your customers that you run a highly professional operation.

Sometimes our clients have very specific requirements and we will work with you to enhance the solution to meet your needs, including helping you with the hardware, software and more. We'll work with you until the system is fully installed, all users trained and you're happily using the system.
